INTERBEHAVIORAL PSYCHOLOGY NEWSLETTER

Volume 5
Number 4
Fall 1974

State University College of Arts and Science, Plattsburgh, New York

...the psychological investigative event constitutes the interbehavior of the investigator with a behavior segment or psychological event....Just as the investigator is conditioned by the interbehavioral history of the organism and object, so the investigator is influenced by his antecedent intellectual background.

—J. R. Kantor

A Toast

The soul may be a mere pretense,
the mind makes very little sense
So let us value the appeal
Of that which we can taste and feel.

Piet Hein (Grooks)

THE AGORA

With this final issue of the Newsletter for 1974 we complete five years of publication. As a commemoration we are reprinting the quotation and quatrain from the first issue, the former being the basis for the design. We improved the design in the second year and made minor improvements in the fourth. Beginning in the third year we changed from a quinterly to a quarterly. Articles or other features have been included regularly and perhaps we should rename the publication, inasmuch as it has been somewhat more than a news medium. A tentative possibility is "Quarterly" to replace "Newsletter". Suggestions would be welcome.

The Newsletter started out with about 40 subscribers, at one time hit 145, then settled down to about 100. The number of institutional subscribers, especially libraries, has been gradually increasing.

The Newsletter represents one of the projects recommended at the Summer Conference of Interbehavioral Psychology held at Miner Institute, June 16-21, 1969. Another recommendation, that of some collaborative book publishing, is now receiving some attention. Efforts are underway to develop a book of original papers on selected topics, tentatively entitled INTERBEHAVIORAL

APPROACHES TO RECURRING PROBLEMS IN PSYCHOLOGY and to offer some proposed solutions. If anyone who has not been contacted feels he or she would like to offer a paper or to explore the possibilities, please contact this editor. There are several areas in which we have no writers and others that could use additional development.

In 1933, J. R. Kantor published his basic textbook SURVEY OF THE SCIENCE OF PSYCHOLOGY. This has been an excellent source of his concepts in a very readable form covering a broad array of topics. It has now been revised and brought up to date and will appear in 1975 under the title THE SCIENCE OF PSYCHOLOGY: AN INTERBEHAVIORAL SURVEY.

In this issue, we are providing a Bibliographic Index for the five years of the Newsletter. It includes feature articles, works referred to in the news, and quotations. Several offprints or "reprints" have been distributed with the Newsletters. Most of these have not been mentioned in the text itself and so have not been listed. The following back issues of the Newsletter are still available and will be sent gratis upon request: Vol. 1, Nr. 1, 2, 3, 4; Vol. 2, Nr. 4; Vol. 3, Nr. 2, 4; Vol. 4, Nr. 2.

The editor is grateful to those who have subscribed to the Newsletter and those who have submitted news, articles, and quotations over the past five years, for these have made the advent of the publication and its continuation possible. We continue to be anti-inflationary by keeping the prices the same as those of five years ago. Accompanying this issue is a resubscription form and attached to the back a subscription form, the former, of course, for current subscribers. The latter might be used to induce a friend to try us out or even to subsidize him for a year's trial. If you have occasion to refer students or others to articles in the Newsletter, you might wish to request your library to order a subscription.
